

西 Seattle
華 Chinese
園 Garden

Lantern Light Moonlight

2017 Photography Workshop with Ray Pfortner

The Seattle Chinese Garden reveals another dimension of beauty and tranquility in the golden hour before sunset and under the glow of courtyard lanterns and the light of the full moon.

Photo by workshop member Dewey Webster

This popular workshop for photographers with any type of digital camera and any level of experience focuses on low-light and full moon photography. Learn techniques for painting with light, zooming for creative images, and for capturing full-moon "star bursts." Bring a tripod. A plus for experienced photographers (and everyone) is the rare chance to photograph in the courtyard and garden after dark.

September 6 – Wednesday, 6:45-10:45 pm • Harvest Full Moon!

Classroom session on techniques and tips, followed by shooting in the garden

September 9 – Saturday, 6:45 to 10:45 pm • Shoot in the garden during an almost full moon

September 13 – Wednesday, 6:45 to 9:45 • Classroom review of your best photos

Tuition: $155 for garden members, $185 for nonmembers (You can join when you register.)

Participants: Limited to 16; minimum age is 14 ~ Register soon to ensure your participation.

To Register: Online at seattlechinesegarden.org (See instructions on home page and click the link.)
By phone beginning August 4 ~ 206.934.5219 (Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays, 12–5 pm)

Location: Seattle Chinese Garden, 6000 16th Ave. SW, South Seattle College north entrance

Ray Pfortner is an educator and professional photographer whose work focuses on nature, landscapes, environmental issues, and gardens, especially Asian gardens. He teaches workshops in partnership with colleges, art centers, artist stores, and organizations. Ray has a special interest in coaching new talent. To learn more about Ray: RayPfortner.com.

Questions? raypfortner@gmail.com OR info@seattlechinesegarden.org